

Jesus, my bright and morning star

Anon.

"St Basil", by John Beaumont (1795) HTI 6981a
 Edited by Francis Roads

[♩=80]

Soprano [Air]
 Je - sus, my bright and mor - ning star, My sun in splen - dour all div -

Alto
 Je - sus, my bright and mor - ning star, My sun in splen - dour all div -

Tenor
 Je - sus, my bright and mor - ning star, My sun in splen - dour all div -

Bass
 Je - sus, my bright and mor - ning star, My sun in splen - dour all div -

Keyboard

8

S
 ine, Whom saints and an - gels now a - dore, And this sweet Je - sus now is mine.

A
 ine, Whom saints and an - gels now a - dore, And this sweet Je - sus now is mine.

T
 ine, Whom saints and an - gels now a - dore, And this sweet Je - sus now is mine.

B
 ine, Whom saints and an - gels now a - dore, And this sweet Je - sus now is mine.

Kbd.

2. These pearly gates are opened wide
 Leads to the city bright and fair
 None but the saints baptised with blood
 Will be admitted to walk there.

3. They sit with Jesus on his throne
 And live in all the smiles of God:
 Clothéd in robes of spotless white,
 They chant and sing the Saviour's blood

Circled numbers correspond with lines of text.